I see NO reason for the SAR govt. to impose GST since this is the main advantage we have over other cities. The govt. should consider lowering its expenses (salaries for example) to obtain a balanced budget instead, the money you get from raising tax will only give you an opportunity to waste more money. The government is suppose to work with what they have and make the best out of the resources they got, get your act straight before you come asking your people for money. For what we have seen the past few years, we can only see wastage and wastage of the peoples blood and sweat money by the government. You are suppose to work for the people, not the other way around. As for saving up for bad time, i believe that having a deficit during those time is normal, we have gone through those many times under British rule, why cant we do it now, will it be because our govt. now is incompetent? greedy? corrupted? If you going to do something, try raising the profit tax la.
