

To: taxreform@fstb.gov.hk
cc:
Subject: About the GST Suggestion Submission

08/09/2006 19:18

- Urgent
 Return Receipt

Dear Sirs,

I have the advice for the GST as below:

The government can add the GST to our Tax System but no need to add GST to all of the goods and services, just limited to the goods with the selling price at HK$ 1,000.00 or more, and for services with the price in one bill reached HK$ 2,000 or more. That means all goods with the price below $1000 and services below $2,000 will have NO GST.

These will be acceptable for more people especially the lower income peoples. It also will not affect the daily livelihood of the lower level people.

There are wide range of the goods have the selling price more than HK$1,000, such as Brand Name fashion, handbags, electronic products, furniture, many.. many. The government still can receive quite a big amount of tax from these goods.

About the services, for example, if someone go resturant and need to pay the bill to $1,999 or lower, then he/she no need to pay GST, this make most of the people will not be distrubted by paying GST in their daily lives.

But people still will pay the GST when they buy the goods reached $1,000 each or the services in $2,000. As they have decided to buy those expensive goods that they also don't mind to pay a little bit more for the Tax.

Please consider my suggestion.

best regards

Rosemary Wong Kam Ling