Hi!

I personally support the idea of GST. However, I really doubt the sincerity and the motives of the Government in promoting the system. In early days, the Financial Secretary has openly announced that the Government would work out various scenarios for households of different income levels and combination of family members to indicate the effects of GST on them. However, nothing has been announced so far!! I suggest the Government should really work hard in this respect so that the public would understand that GST is not so dreadful.
